Greeting

[Actor] A warm welcome to you all. We're delighted that you've chosen to visit Polin museum – an institution whose name is as curious as it is lovely. We will do our best to reveal to you the meanings behind this mysterious name. This is only one of many secrets that await you. I'll reveal one for the start. I'm not really a tour guide. I'm actually an actor and I happen to be preparing for a role. I can't say much more about it - what I can say is that any actor getting ready for a role has to do their research. Some actors learn another language, others learn to ride horseback or study history, customs and traditions in order to recreate a culture, past or present, as faithfully as they can. And this is precisely why I am here. We're going to learn about customs and traditions together. The only question that remains is... what sorts of customs and traditions are they and who do they belong to?
